

Bio: Amy Gibson

Amy Gibson is the Manager of Housing & Homelessness with the City of Kingston. Amy has 25 years of work experience within Community and Social Services, Youth Justice and Child Welfare, providing service delivery to vulnerable individuals and families who face adversity, are marginalized, and in need of support services to maintain safe and affordable housing. Amy specializes in leading multi level projects, strategic planning, and community development. Amy holds a Master of Business Administration degree, with a focus on Community Economic Development (CED), a Social Service Worker diploma, and was a Professor in the Social Service Worker program at St. Lawrence College for a 10-year tenure.